Applewood FARMHOUSE GRILL™

DINNER

Many stories about the "good old days" are just misguided nostalgia. It certainly wasn't "good" to try to stay warm around a pot-bellied stove with February winds whistling thru the cracks. Remember priming the pump every time you wanted a drink of water and chopping cords of wood, only to have it burn up faster than you could chop? One thing about the "good old days" slipped away when no one was looking: the smell of apple pies and hot breads steaming from the oven, bowls of soup that warmed you to the toes, fresh vegetables an hour from the fields, and fruits right off the tree. Remember how every meal was a treat? We remember at the Applewood Farmhouse Grill.
